

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Feb. 10, 2021

Contact:

Kristi Warriner

Kristi@CommunityCoworks.org

Community CoWorks Launches Virtual Mail Service

(MIDDLETON, Wis.)—To help run businesses run remotely, Community CoWorks is launching a virtual mail service Feb. 14 called Community Post.

Businesses, as well as freelancers and remote workers, can have their mail sent to the commercial address of 3030 Laura Ln., Middleton, Wis. Community Post will then scan the mail and securely send it to the business.

The launch of the Community Post was supported by the Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation's We're All In Small Business Grant Phase 2 program, of which Community CoWorks was a recipient in December 2020.

"Community Post is a centralized hub for decentralized businesses, which have become more prevalent in today's world," Community CoWorks Founder Kristi Warriner said. "This grant will help us get this new service off the ground so that we can continue helping solopreneurs, established businesses and everyone in between."

The virtual mail service offers a variety of packages ranging from $10/month to $150/month.

"Through Community Post and Community CoWorks, we look forward to providing businesses all the benefits of having a physical address at our coworking space without the expensive long-term lease that's typically required," Warriner said.

For more information about Community Post, visit: <https://www.communitycoworks.org/virtual-mail>.

About Community CoWorks

Community CoWorks provides collaboration, camaraderie and community for entrepreneurs, non-profits, startups and remote workers. To help spark productivity, we provide offices, conference rooms, dedicated desks and hot desks.

###