SKYGEN appoints Jeff Spahr as Chief Client Success Officer

Spahr to drive excellence in client experience and support long-term growth

MENOMONEE FALLS, Wis., May 6, 2026 – SKYGEN, the leading provider of software as a service (SaaS) and third-party administration (TPA) solutions for dental and vision benefits management, is announcing today the appointment of Jeff Spahr as Chief Client Success Officer.

In his new role, Spahr will be responsible for shaping and executing a unified client success strategy. He will focus on building strategic, trusted partnerships and delivering long-term value for clients across every touchpoint.

“As SKYGEN continues to grow, the importance of consistency and excellence in how we deliver for our clients is paramount,” said Steve Berryman, CEO of SKYGEN. “Jeff brings the experience, discipline and perspective required to ensure we are driving amazing client relationships throughout our business.”

With a track record of driving growth, innovation and measurable client outcomes, Spahr is known for his ability to connect strategy with execution. He has successfully built high-performing teams and strengthened client partnerships through a focused, results-oriented approach.

“Strong client relationships are built on a shared commitment to growth and clear alignment on priorities,” said Spahr. “I’m excited to build on SKYGEN’s strong foundation by deepening our partnerships, investing in our client experience team and helping our clients achieve their long-term strategic goals.”

In his most recent role as Vice President of SKYGEN’s Vision Business, Spahr drove performance across more than 17 million vision lives, advancing growth and innovation across the segment. He also brings more than 20 years of leadership experience with health plans and financial management, including senior roles at Anthem, where he led strategic growth initiatives across a broad portfolio of specialty benefits.
